LOCAL CHURCHTONIGHT'S SERVICE OF PASSION WEEK SERIES BEING CONDUCT-ED BY GREENCASTLE CHURCH-ES TO BE IN BAPTIST CHURCHThe special Passion week services which are being conducted by the Greencastle churches were held in the Methodist church Tuesday evening.
The services were well attended, and the interest is growing each evening.
B. H. Bruner, minister of the Christian church was the speaker for this service. Mr. Bruner took as his subject, "Great Questions of the Last Week." He said in part:"The religious world has not made a mistake in the increased emphasis which has been placed upon the last week of the earthly life of our Lord.
There is no study which is more interesting or helpful than that of the various events and characters around which this last week revolves. Many events which have stood out as incomparable through the centuries, and men whose names are as common in the twentieth century as they were in the first, form the center of the story of this week. Measured as we measure time, there were just seven short days and nights in that week. But measured in terms of their influence, these days have become centuries.""One may approach a study of this week from many different angles. A study of the great days of this week is very interesting. A study of the great characters in illuminating, and a study of the great choices which were made during this week is searching. Much may be said about the great sins of the last week—the sins which finally crucified Jesus. Just now, in a very brief and inadequate way, I want you to study with me a few of the great questions which

ESTATE CASE VENUED FROM
PUTNAM COURTLEGAL BATTLE OF LAURA B.
HIRT FOR WIDOW'S SHARE OF ALFRED HIRT ESTATE IS SENT TO MONT-GOMERY COUN-TY

CASE PENDING SINCE 1929

Seeks $50,000 Of $150,000 Estate Instead Of $7,000 As Provided By Pre-Nuptial Agreement And WillThe legal battle of Laura B. Hirt, widow of Alfred Hirt for a widow's share of her husband's estate, instead of the share she would receive by a pre-nuptial agreement and a will, will be waged in Montgomery county as a result of a change of venue taken from the Putnam circuit court by the widow.The case was ordered sent to Montgomery county after Morgan, Hendricks and Clay counties had been stricken from a prepared list by Mrs. Hirt and Park and Owen counties had been stricken by Andrew Hirt, defendant in the case and executor of the will of the late Alfred Hirt.In her petition for a change of venue, Mrs. Hirt alleged that she could not secure a fair and impartial trial in the case of the local court because of undue influence of the defendants here.In her suit against Andrew Hirt, executor of the will of her husband and other heirs, the widow is seeking a one-third share of $150,000 estate of her husband, instead of the share she would receive by terms of a prenuptial agreement and under terms of the will.Under the pre-nuptial agreement which the widow alleges was signed by herself through fraudulent representations of her husband she would receive $1,000. Additional property left her under the will would have made her share about $7,000 altogether, it was said.Mrs. Hirt alleges that she signed the pre-nuptial agreement because it was represented to her that it applied only if she and her husband were divorced. She stated that she had not seen a copy of the contract from the time she signed it until a copy was produced following her husband's death.The widow alleged that her husband's estate increased from $30,000 to $150,000 during the twenty-seven years of married life and that she is entitled to $50,000 of it.The Legal Contest over the estate has been pending since June 24, 1929.PENAL FARM ESCAPE

AWARDS $1,000 TO ARCHI-TECT FOR WORK ON
METHODIST CHURCH
BUILDINGS

$2,000 WAS ASKED IN SUIT

Indianapolis Man Designed Two Buildings For Church—Plans for One Of Which Has Since Been AbandonedA judgment of $1,000 was granted Alfred Grindler, Indianapolis architect and the Bevington Williams Company against the Greenscastle Methodist church by Judge James P.
Hughes in the Putnam circuit court today. A judgment of $2,000 was demanded in the case, which was a suit on contract and was filed in the Putnam circuit court last July.Grindler according to his complaint was engaged to design two buildings for the church in November 1926.
The buildings were the Greenscastle Methodist church and a proposed religious education unit, plans for which have since been abandoned.According to Grindler his fee was to have been five per cent of the total costs of the buildings, and he entered into a contract with the trustees of the church to that effect.This money was to have been paid in five installments, and according to Grindler's complaint three per cent of the amount had been due and unpaid since February 1929.Grindler stated that his fee was $8,789.91 and that of this amount $7,000 had been paid by the church.
The Bevington Williams company was a plaintiff in the suit, because a demand for $1,000 of the fee alleged to be due Grindler had been transferred to the firm by him for value received.LOVING CUP

AIR CRAFT CARRIES EIGHT TO

TUESDAY MORNING—KNUTE ROCKNE AMONG DEADKANSAS CITY, April 1.—The cause of the tragic end of the air transport plane belonging to the Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. which when it crashed to earth carrying with it Knute Rockne world-wide known football wizard, and coach of the famous football team of Notre Dame university, five other passengers, the pilot and co-pilot, remains unexplained today. However officials have been sent to the scene of the accident.Reports are that the plane lost a wing before the crash which may have been caused by ice collecting on the wing, causing a weight which the wing could not withstand. The plane left Kansas City at 9:15 o'clock in the morning with its first scheduled stop to be Wichita, Kansas, and the crash came near a small town, Bazaar, Kansas.The two older sons of Knute Rockne who are students in Pembroke boys school in Kansas City, made an attempt to see their father as he passed through the city, but had missed him by twenty minutes.
Mrs. Rockne and their two younger children were enroute home from Coral Gables, Fla. The two boys who are attending school in Kansas City had been visiting their mother, their train arriving just after their father had boarded the plane.Funeral arrangements were to be in charge of Dr. D. M. Mingo of Kansas City, intimate friend of the famous man, at the request of Mrs.
Rockne. The funeral probably will not be held until after Monday in South Bend although definite arrangements have not been completed.When the news reached Notre Dame university at South Bend, class examinations which being conducted were suspended and thousands of students and townspeople swarmed the campus awaiting verification of the report which seemed utterly impossible to believe at first. The verification reached the office of the president, Rev. Charles I. O'Donnell first.
Hundreds went to the Sacred Heart church where they remained all afternoon.The body of Mr. Rockne is sched-

AT AN EASTER
SERVICE TODAYWEDNESDAY'S CHAPEL IS LAST BEFORE SPRING VACATION.
WHICH STARTS THURSDAY NOON—MUSICAL PRELUDE BY SCHOOL OF MUSICWednesday's chapel marked the last university chapel service before the spring vacation starts Thursday noon. The program was devoted to an Easter Service with special Easter music being furnished by the school of music. Prof. Vandennan Thompson played an organ prelude, Easter Morn, after which the University choir sang Cavalleria Rusticana.In the lovely chorus from "Cavalleria Rusticana" which you have just heard is line you may have missed because of the very beauty of the music. The choir sang:"He is risen in glory to reign!
We will sing of the Lord now victorious!"We will sing of the Christ' ever glorious:Power of death was in vain!
Like a haunting melody, a friendly smile, or the encouraging word that ever and anon through recollection rushes into consciousness, will you not allow this line with its inspiring words to flash again and again into your minds as I talk: "Power of death was in vain!"Jesus entered the city acclaimed by the crowd. He heard their glad Hosannas. Five days later the crowd cried, "Crucify Him!" Is there an explanation of this amazing change in sentiment? Was the Master stunned, whose ears had heard the bolderous shouts of praise, stunned when within a short time He heard the menacing cries of death?Perhaps it might be well to note that men in mobs do not think.
Mobs act; and their actions are ruled by feelings and by passions. Not always, but very often behind the scene are men who move the mob.

ICY WINDS PLAY APRIL'S "FAST ONE"

The weather man got credit today for pulling the "fastest" April fool joke.

Greencastle retired Tuesday night with high temperatures prevailing and a trace of rain on the streets. It awoke this morning to a wet snow fall and the mercury at freezing. A north wind that at times, had a velocity of more than twenty miles an hour, drove the snow at pedestrians and caked it on windshields.

However, the ace in the hole is the prediction that skies will clear this afternoon and Thursday will see the mercury rise.

Indiana is on the rim of a wheel like storm area, that is due to pass eastward in next few hours, J. H. Armington, weather bureau head forecast. He said rain and snow extended along the Atlantic seaboard this morning.

ROTARY CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS WEDNESDAY

At their weekly luncheon meeting held today noon at the Greencastle country club, the Greencastle Rotary Club elected officers for the year. They are as follows: President, Harry Allan; Vice president, Captain B. B. McMahon; Secretary, Warren J. Yount; Treasurer, Frank Schoenman; Sergeant At Arms, Roland Pifer and directors Otis Gardner and Worley Timmons.

ARMY DAY CELEBRATION WILL BE APRIL 6

With all the fanfare typical of the service, the United States Army will observe Easter Monday, April 6, as Army Day.

From the Pennsylvania Ave portico of the State, War and Navy Building General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, will explain the "Purpose of Army Day" in a talk carried over the coast-to-coast network of Columbia Broadcasting System.

With stirring martial music by the Army band, and with Washington High School cadets, the R. O. T. C. unit from Georgetown University and cadets from St. Johns College (Washington) in formation before the highest ranking active Army officer the ceremony will present a colorful picture.

General MacArthur will be introduced by Major Charles Demont, Commander of the District of Columbia Department of the Military Order of the World War. Rear Admiral T. J. Cowie, U. S. N., will congratulate the Army on its fourth annual observance of Army Day. Admiral Cowie is a past National Commander of the Military Order of the World War.

The broadcast will be heard from 12 to 12:30 p. m. EST.

HARLEM NIGHT CLUB RANCER NOT ON PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The reported selection of Josephine Baker, former Harlem night club dancer, as queen of the colonies for the Paris International and Overseas Exposition was vehemently denied in a statement issued by the French Embassy here.

"The Exposition does not open until May 1st," the statement said, "and only then will a 'queen of the colonies' be selected as truly representative of the one hundred million French Colonial peoples scattered throughout the world."

EASTER FROLIC AT WHITE HOUSE TO BE BROADCAST

Departing from the time-honored tradition of throwing open to youngsters the south grounds of the White House on Easter Monday for the sole purpose of egg rolling, Mrs. Herbert Hoover this year has arranged for a group of folk dances and concerts by the U. S. Marine Band which will be broadcast by the Columbia system. Mrs. Hoover believing the custom of rolling eggs on the White House lawn was "rather stupid," asked the opinions of Friendship House, Neighborhood House, the Girl Scouts and Girl reserves as to the advisability of doing away with the practice. Receiving favorable replies, she decided to substitute the dances and band music.

This Easter, the folk dances will be staged on the south lawn from 10 to 12 a. m., E. S. T., and from 2 to 3 p. m. by the Girl Scouts, Girl Reserves and other young women's organizations. The U. S. Marine Band, Capt. Taylor Branson directing, will play from 3 to 4, the concert to be carried over a coast-to-coast Columbia network. Sidelines on the children, the dances and the appearance of the President and Mrs. Hoover, as the hostess, also will be broadcast during this hour.

Following her usual custom, Mrs. Hoover will mingle with the thousands of children during the morning. Later, after luncheon, she and the President will view the gathering from the south portico, along with their grandchildren, who this year will spend their first Easter at the White House.

Anticipating that as usual there will be an egg rolling, despite the institution of folk dances and concerts by Mrs. Hoover, the White House gardeners are preparing again this year to clean up the mess of squashed eggs that always appears the morning after Easter Monday.

CORONER FILES REPORT ON THREE RECENT DEATHS

Reports of inquests in the sudden deaths of three Putnam county persons have been filed with the county clerk by county coroner Frank Reed of Cloverdale. All three died of heart disease.

Inquests were held in the deaths of Charles Allen, 60 years old of Reelsville, who died March 10; John Dawson, 59 years old of Roachdale, who died March 28 and Sarah E. Cook, 71 years old of Reelsville R. R. 1, who died March 23.

Continuation D

These men think that they can rid themselves of irritating ideas by killing the man who holds them. They argue that it is expedient for one man to die for the people. They are clever in the use of subtle rumor. From one ignorant soul to another the rumor passes and grows. "He said he would destroy the temple." "He is an enemy of Caesar." Forgotten were the kind deeds, the beautiful life, the sublime teachings. The ugly mood develops, the mass mobilizes, the instigators laugh and understand that it is but a question of time before Jesus will be removed. A cowardly official, with his ear to the political earth, unable to find anything wrong in Him, nevertheless turns Him over to the passion of the mob.

What does this Easter lesson teach? Among its many lessons is one that must never be forgotten, and that is this: A worthy ideal is immortal. Jesus himself could cry, "My God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"; an aggressive follower could deny Him; the disciples could rush into hiding; but the "Power of death was in vain." In little upper rooms, on the hillside, in a hundred crowded streets, the ideal lives. Stephen is stoned; but the power of death was in vain. Paul is persecuted; the moral ideal vanquishes the persecutor; Paul builds the churches and dies at last in Rome, but the power of death was in vain. Christianity became the religion of the Roman Empire.

The heirs of the martyrs, unknowingly recruited the Lord by un-Christian conduct, and they buried Him in the tombs of institutionalism, of creed and of ritualism. But the power of death was in vain. He rises again in the Reformation. Once again He is buried and rises anew in the Wesleyan revival. Many feel that we are again burying the Lord in our mighty organization. Whatever may be the fact, certain it is that the lessons of the centuries should be recalled upon his Holy Week and that all of us should remember that He, in the glorious ideals he proclaims, will rise again because the power of death was in vain.

were asked during this week. Many questions were asked during that period, but I have selected seven which I think go to the very heart of life and thought and religion, both then and now. The question about authority in religion; the question about tribute; the question about the end of the world; the question about the greatest commandment; the question about truth; the question about Jesus himself; and the question about what to do with Jesus. Out of the turmoil, controversy, scheming, and tragedy of that last week, these seven questions stand out. They are questions which, for the most part, had been asked before, and they are questions which are still being asked. They are questions which are now universal in their bearing upon the life and thought and religion of the entire race."

Mr. Bruner discussed each of these questions in a brief way. Concerning authority in religion, he said: "The question which the chief priests and elders asked Jesus, 'By what authority doest thou these things?' and who gave thee this authority,' is always the first and most important question for the leaders of institutionalized and official religion. 'What right' they say, 'has any man to speak unless he has the official sanction of the church—unless his ordination is regular, and his credentials square with the canons of institutionalized religion?' For official religion, authority is an external thing. For Jesus it was an inner thing. The authority of Jesus was the authority of a soul that was at one with God. It was an authority that finds its source in the sovereignty of an unfettered human spirit. The question of authority in religion is vital. For the Roman Catholic it lies in an infallible church. For the orthodox Protestant it lies in an infallible book. If Jesus were to appear on the scene today in person, he would be faced by both Catholics and Protestants with the question, 'By what authority doest thou these things?' And Jesus would not be orthodox according to either standard of authority. And yet, Jesus' standard of authority in religion, is the only standard that holds any hope for the future. In life and thought and religion, the authority of an infallible church and an infallible book, has had its day."

In speaking of the question of paying tribute to Caesar or God, Mr. Bruner warned against the danger of making nationalism into a religion and of making the state a deity which would take the place of God. Concerning the question of the end of the world, he said that the business of Christians was to discharge the common obligations of discipleship rather than to speculate about the end of the world. In his closing words he stressed the importance of answering both the question about Jesus and the question of what we are going to do with Jesus both in our individual lives and in the life of the world. He said: "I believe in the reality of the humanity of Jesus, but I also believe that it is impossible to reduce him to the limits of ordinary humanity. He does not fit into the dimensions of a merely superior man. He stands in a class absolutely by himself. My faith in Jesus as being more than man, as being in truth the Son of the Living God, does not rest upon any satisfactory explanation of the meta-physical relation between God and man. Neither does it rest upon any dogma of the virgin birth or the pre-existence of Jesus. It rests upon the facts of his life and his influence in human history. Jesus lived such a life as had never been lived on earth. He manifested such a faith and trust in God as had never been manifested before. He spoke words about God and human relation ship which have never been equalled. He died on the cross to make good all that he had believed and said. He came so close to God that he became superior to death. He is alive in the thought and life of the world now. He still forgives, redeems, and recreates men and women. He shakes empires upon their foundations and changes the course of history. I cannot explain him in human terms—I can only acknowledge him as the Son of God."

"Pilate washed his hands and thought he was through with Jesus, but he was not. This age may wash its hands and turn to things which seem to be of more importance, and think it is through with Jesus. It may go on in its mad rush for money and pleasure, and allow Jesus to be crucified again. But it will not be through with him. When our material prosperity has vanished, and when we have drained the cup of pleasure to its bitter dregs, Jesus will come back to haunt us with the majesty of his words, to shame us with the purity of his character, and to comfort us with the power and endlessness of his life."

The service Wednesday evening will be held in the Baptist church and Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of DePauw university will be the preacher.

SOCIETY

Federated Club Meeting

Very Interesting All Day
The March meeting of the Putnam County Federation of Clubs which was held in Greencastle Tuesday, March 31, was characterized by a number of interesting features.

The roll-call and report of club president showed a scope of work which was surprising to those unacquainted with the Putnam clubs. Aside from regular club programs, girls are being helped through schools, much hospital work is being done both in the local hospital and for the Riley hospital of Indianapolis. Practically all of the twenty-nine clubs reported buying health bonds or subscribing to the milk fund for school children. The club dues and sums raised by various club activities amount to several hundred dollars, most of which is spent in Putnam county. In addition to individual work many of the clubs through their representatives are doing most effective work in the Greencastle Council of Clubs whose activities were reported by Mrs. C. C. Huestis. About nine hundred women are enrolled in the Putnam county clubs.

Mrs. Morton Fordice in her conservative way gave a most timely talk on "Legislation and Legislators." Her analysis of legislation or the lack of it was keen, and her opinion that the time has come for the women to participate more largely in the legislative and executive branches of government met with approval.

The noon luncheon was unusually bounteous and attractive. Mrs. Charles Cooper was the efficient chairman of the dining room, assisted by a representative from each of the Greencastle clubs.

Mrs. H. R. Nicholas, county president, said in introducing the afternoon program that it was arranged to emphasize the aesthetic side of club life. The program opened with a brilliant organ number by Prof. Van Denman Thompson. This was followed by a comprehensive talk on art, "New Canvases," by Marjorie Allee, and included a splendid description of the Hoosier Art Salon of Chicago. The second musical number, a group of art songs, was preceded by a brief talk by Art Rowland Leach on "What is an Art Song?" The group included "Night, and the Curtains Drawn," "Ships," "Away," which were sung by Mrs. Rowland Leach who was accompanied by Prof. Leach, the composer. The last number was a book-review by Mrs. W. W. Tucker, president of Over the Teacups club. In her presentation of "The Two Thieves" she held the undivided attention of her audience, and her ending with the picture of the two thieves upon the crosses with a third cross silhouetted against a dark sky was a fitting climax to program splendidly given and greatly appreciated.

PROF. THOMPSON, MISS DENNIS IN RECITAL

The last regular Wednesday afternoon organ recital for the year was played by Prof. Van Denman Thompson this afternoon in the Methodist church. A large attendance appeared for this final number. Miss Margaret Dennis, soprano, assisted Prof. Thompson on the program. These recitals have been a feature of the year being played each week by Prof. Thompson or one of his pupils as guest organist. At times during the year, a former pupil now graduated returned to the campus to play on this recital offering.

OWEN JURORS INDICT GUNMAN AND TWO OTHERS

MAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY WITH INTENT TO MURDER HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW — ALTERCATION AROSE OVER WOMAN REPORT STATES

Indicted by the Owen county grand jury for assault and battery with intent to murder Lee Griffith, 42 will face trial in the Owen circuit court during the present term of court.

Perry Melville, 60, victim of the attack is a patient at the Gloomington hospital, suffering a bullet wound in the left leg. Griffith is alleged to have shot Melville during an altercation at a Spencer garage. The gunman and victim are said to be brothers-in-law.

The disagreement leading to the shooting was said to have been over a woman. Griffith told Prosecutor Ruble that he shot Melville in self-defense. After the shooting Melville was taken to his home west of Spencer. Griffith fled, but was captured. Under a physician's advice, Melville was removed to the Bloomington hospital for treatment. The bullet was lodged in his leg and physicians were unable to remove it.

Other indictments charged John and Paul Finney with second degree burglary. All three are now lodged in the Owen county jail. Bond for the two Finney boys was fixed at $1,000 each while that of Griffith was fixed at $2,000.

The Finneys are charged with having burglarized the Gosport hardware store.

NAPOLEON FACES TRIAL

Napoleon Bonaparte

Duke of Enghien

Napoleon Bonaparte, the undersized Corsican Lieutenant who rose to be one of the world's most tremendous figures, must face trial for murder.

Arthur Garfield Hays, noted legal light, will prosecute him before a distinguished radio jury Sunday night, April 5th, over WEAF and associated stations at 19:15 Eastern Standard Time.

Dudley Field Malone, former Assistant Secretary of State and celebrated lawyer, will defend the Little Corporal.

The trial of Napoleon is the second of the series of "Famous Trials of History," sponsored by the National Dairy Products Corporation. Clarence Darrow and James M. Beck participated in the first, in which Benedict Arnold faced charges of treason.

The specific crime for which Napoleon must answer in his radio trial is the execution, after a farcical "trial," of the Duke of Enghien. This noted royalist, the last of the famous line of Coades, was shot by a firing squad, despite the protestations of practically all France. Even in his capture, which took place across the German frontier, Napoleon violated international law and outraged a friendly power.

Talleyrand, who was Napoleon's evil genius, and one of the most sinister figures in history, counseled Napoleon's murderous step.

Talleyrand later disclaimed this and threw the blame back on Bonaparte with the remark that the execution was "worse than a crime; it was a blunder." The shooting aroused Europe. Napoleon claimed that it was necessary as a threat to royalty by republicans in France.
